...we are taking every possible opportunity to reaffirm a very simple concept—that peace should be a basic condition of existence. Peace is a necessity founded on values and good sense, certainly, but also on practice, on the experience of everyday life. I choose peace on the base of things that I have seen in my life. I am convinced that war is never a way to solve problems; it is always a way to enlarge them. War starts a spiral that no one is able to end...
